Murchison Falls National Park is a top Uganda Safari destination and its best attraction is a Paara boat stretch to the bottom of the falls. The Park sits on the shore of Lake Albert in northwest Uganda. It's known for Murchison Falls, where the Victoria Nile River surges through a narrow gap over a massive drop. The park's endowed with big game, including elephants and hippos, and you could catch sight of the chimpanzee in the Kanyiyo Padidi mahogany forest. The Lake Albert Delta is home to rare shoebill storks. There is game fishing in the cascades of Karuma Falls.

Bwindi is the most important forest reserve in Uganda. This swath of steep mountains covered in thick, steamy jungle is just as magnificent as it sounds. The 32,092 ha (320 sq km) World Heritage-listed Bwindi Impenetrable National Park is one of Africa's most ancient habitats, even surviving the last Ice Age as most of the continent's other forests disappeared. Most prominent about the park is its 500 inhabitants, the mountain gorillas.

- 4. Ostrich*
- 5. Elephant*
- 6. Giraffes*
- 7. Buffalo*

Activities

- 1. Game drives*
- 2. Bird watching*
- 3. Nature walks*

Considered one of the most remote safari parks in Africa, Kidepo Valley National Park is most notable for harboring a number of animals found nowhere else in Uganda, including cheetahs, bat-eared foxes, aardwolves, caracal, and greater and lesser kudus. Amazingly, most of the animals, including even the occasional lion, are content to graze and lounge right near the park accommodation, so you can see a whole lot without going very far – a kind of armchair safari
